

Week 3

Handa's Surprise - Narrative

Teacher's example

One tropical day in South America, Handa was packing her brown basket full of delicious food. She was going to visit her best friend Akeyo. Handa set off down the long Amazon River. First, a cheeky toucan with a golden yellow beak pinched the green bumpy avocado.

Then, a furry brown spider monkey swung down and took the big prickly pineapple. Next, a spotty jaguar grabbed the round coca bean. After a scaly alligator sneaked behind and stole the red juicy berries. Finally, a sleepy sloth came and robbed the hazelnut.

Without Handa noticing, a group of crazy monkeys started to shake the tall green trees. Suddenly, delicious yellow bananas fell down and landed in Handa's rowing boat. After a while, Handa arrived at Akeyo's village. Bananas! How did you know they were my favourite fruit? Handa was very surprised because she did not know where they came from. Handa and Akeyo enjoyed eating all the tasty bananas.
