- Can you use 'because'?

You might want to do a plan first or practice using because in a sentence before doing this activity.

Here is my example

Dear Diary,

Today I went to visit my friend Akeyo. I was excited because I have not seen her in a while. I packed seven delicious fruit into a round basket. Then I set off across the dusty desert. I started to feel tired because it was a long journey and my wooden basket was heavy.

I walked under the hot sun and saw tall trees and long dry grass. After a while, I was feeling fine because the basket was getting lighter and lighter. Suddenly, I heard a thump! Then my basket suddenly became heavy and I struggled to carry it.

I was nearly at Akeyo's house. She saw me struggling and came running out of her house. When I saw what was in the basket I felt confused because it was full of sweet tangerines and not my seven delicious fruit. Akeyo was happy because tangerines were her favourite fruit so I was glad.
