Questions 9 to 19 are about 'The Forgotten Teddy'

The Forgotten Teddy

On a shelf high up in a bedroom, was a teddy. A brown teddy, with a red ribbon around his neck. Once, this teddy had been the most loved toy in the room and the little boy who owned him had played with him every day. But now he sat high up on a shelf gathering dust.

Each day, Teddy would watch as Harry, his owner, would come home from college and flop onto his bed. Each day he hoped that today was the day Harry got him down to play, but Harry never did. Then, one day, Teddy found himself in a bag being put in the loft.

9. What does 'gathering dust' mean?

The teddy has never been washed.

The teddy has not moved from the shelf for a very long time.

The teddy likes playing in the dust.

10. Why do you think Harry doesn't want to play with Teddy anymore?

11. Where was Teddy put after he was put into the bag?

It was dark and cold in the loft. Teddy was surrounded by boxes full of old photographs and books, but there was no one for him to talk to. All alone, Teddy sat and thought of all the fun he and Harry used to have. He remembered the battles that he and Harry fought against the evil T-rex and the picnics in the garden on hot summer days.

12. What was it like in the loft?

Eventually, Teddy forgot about Harry. He had been in the loft, in the dark alone, for many years. One day, Teddy heard a noise. He squinted through a hole in the bag and saw that a tall man was climbing up into the loft. "My bag of special things is here somewhere," Teddy heard the man say. Teddy looked through the hole at the man. He thought he knew him, but couldn't be sure. Soon the man saw the bag Teddy was in. "Here it is!" the man exclaimed and he picked up the bag and carried it out of the loft and down the ladder.

15. Why did Teddy forget about Harry? Tick one box.

Because he had got old.

Because he had been alone
in the loft for so long.

Because he was sad.

16. 'He squinted through a hole in the bag and saw a tall man was climbing up into the loft.'

What does the word 'squinted' mean?

When they were back down the ladder, the man opened the bag. He began to take out the things from inside, one by one. "This was my favourite book," the man said. Teddy peered through the hole to see who the man was talking to, but he couldn't see anyone. "Oh and this was my favourite board game."

Teddy heard a voice, "Let me see daddy!" Suddenly, peering into the bag was a little girl. "Oooooo daddy!" she exclaimed. "Look at the pretty teddy!"

The man peered into the bag and looked at Teddy. "This was my favourite toy of all," he said. He picked up Teddy and looked at him carefully. The man looked at the little girl. "Can you look after Teddy for me?" he asked her.

17. Who is the man?

"Yes!" she cried.

Her daddy smiled and handed her Teddy. "Make sure you give him lots of hugs and play with him every day."

"I will daddy, I promise." The girl took Teddy and held him tightly as she ran to play outside. As she went, the man thought he saw the teddy smile.

18. Number the events below to show the order in which they happen in the story.

- Teddy is put up the loft.
- The man gives the little girl the teddy.
- Teddy forgets about Harry.
